Assistance for Pennsylvania Voters with Disabilities:

Ballot Marking

Pennsylvania voters with a disability may receive assistance from another person to mark their ballot. To do so, the voter must complete a declaration to confirm that they are unable to vote without such assistance due to a disability and are authorizing the other person to assist. The requirements to successfully request assistance with marking a ballot depend on whether a voter with a disability is voting in person, by mail or by absentee ballot, as explained below.

Q1: Who can get assistance with marking their ballot?

Pennsylvania law specifically provides that a voter may receive assistance marking their ballot if the voter cannot independently vote because of an inability to read or write, blindness, or disability. Ballot marking assistance is a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act. The ADA defines a disability, in relevant part, as a condition that substantially impairs a person’s ability to perform one or more major life activities. Major life activities are broadly defined in the ADA and include caring for oneself, performing manual tasks, walking, breathing, seeing, communicating, learning, thinking, and working.

Q2: Who can assist a voter with a disability in marking their ballot?

Any person may provide assistance except: the judge of election at a voter’s polling place; the voter’s employer; an agent or officer of the voter’s employer; or an agent or officer of the voter’s union.
Q3: How can a qualified voter with a disability receive assistance in marking a ballot at the polls on election day?

When a voter receives assistance at the polling place, the judge of election must complete a record of assisted voters identifying each such voter who receives assistance, who assisted the voter and why the voter was entitled to assistance.

Q4: How can a qualified voter with a disability receive assistance in marking their mail-in or absentee ballot?

Blind voters and other voters with disabilities that prevent them from marking a paper ballot can use the remote ballot marking tool that is now available to electronically and independently mark their ballot. Information is available on the DOS website at https://www.votespa.com/Voting-in-PA/Pages/Accessible-Remote-Ballot-Marking-Solution-for-Mail-Voting.aspx.

Voters who wish to use this option must first apply for a mail-in or absentee ballot by the deadline, and then apply online at https://expressforms.pa.gov/apps/pa/DOS/Remote-Access-Ballot-Request, or by submitting to ra-awib@pa.gov the completed application, which is available in PDF form at https://www.votespa.com/Voting-in-PA/Documents/Accessible-Remote-Ballot-Request.pdf. The voter will then be sent a ballot electronically to mark. The voter must print the completed ballot and mail or deliver it.

Absentee and mail-in voters may also receive assistance marking a paper ballot if they submit a statement to their county board of elections describing and attesting the voter’s need for assistance, with the information and signature of the person who will provide the assistance. The statement must be notarized and “substantially” in the form prescribed by Pennsylvania law (25 P.S. § 3146.6a). DOS has posted a form declaration of need for assistance at https://www.votespa.com/Voting-in-PA/Documents/Declaration%20of%20Need%20of%20Assistance_generic.pdf. County boards of election may provide their own forms, but voters are cautioned to confirm that the county form substantially matches the DOS form and the language in 25 P.S. § 3146.6a.

Q5: Does a voter with a disability need to re-register in order to qualify for assistance with marking their ballot?

No. Voters should, when possible, ensure that their registration card indicates their need for assistance because “blindness, disability, or inability to read or write” renders the voter “unable to see or mark the ballot or operate the voting machine, or to enter the voting compartment or voting machine booth without assistance.” When the voter’s registration card indicates the need for assistance, and “election officers” at the polling place must be “satisfied that” the voter has the conditions that cause the voter to need assistance at the time of registration.
Voters who qualify to receive assistance because they cannot see, mark the ballot, operate the voting machine, or enter a voting place without assistance, should apply to local election officials to request that their registration card properly states the need for assistance. The application must be made personally by the voter, at least 10 days before the election, and the application must “request entry of the exact nature of the disability on the [voter’s] registration card.”

Even when “the disability is not entered on the registration card,” a voter still may receive assistance at the polling place if they complete a declaration while there. The declaration should be supplied by election officials at the polling place, but voters who have concerns should contact their county board of elections before they go to the polling place for details about assistance for a disability.

If the voter’s disability is not entered on the registration card, a voter can still receive assistance in marking a mail-in or absentee ballot by completing the declaration described in Q4.

Q6: Can someone other than the voter return the marked ballot on behalf of a voter with a disability?

Yes, if the voter designates an agent. DOS provides a form by which a voter with a qualifying disability may designate a third person to apply for, obtain and return the voter’s mail-in or absentee ballot. The form is available in English at https://www.votespa.com/Resources/Documents/Authorize-Designated-Agent-for-Mail-in-or-Absentee-Ballot.pdf, and in Spanish at https://www.votespa.com/Resources/Documents/Authorize-Designated-Agent-for-Mail-in-or-Absentee-Ballot-Spanish.pdf. County boards of election may also have their own forms for voters with a disability to request assistance by third parties in applying for, obtaining or returning mail-in and absentee ballots, but voters are encouraged to use caution and, when in doubt, use the DOS form.

I have another question about voting. Who do I call?
